Hearings Postponed

The board of police also held an open session last night in which the hearings on the cases of alleged violations of the liquor laws by Anthony Boland and John J. Brennan of the Franklin house were called. As in the other cases, a continuance was granted in both cases, this time for six weeks. The hearing on the former case comes on Sept. 25, and on the latter Sept. 26.

Discussed Police Matters

Acting Superintendent Brosnan and Chairman Thomas Duckworth of the police board met at the office of the board and spent a long time in conference in the latter office, discussing police matters.

Questioned by a representative of The Sun if there would be any changes in the makeup of the department Acting Supt. Brosnan said: "There will be no changes at the present time. I have nothing to say at present, but will let you know if anything is done."

Later in the morning Commissioner Burns called at the police station and conferred with the newly appointed official in the latter's office.

Chairman Duckworth who is much averse to his picture appearing in the papers, frustrated the well laid plans of a newspaperman who called at the office this morning for the purpose of securing a snap shot of the chairman.

The photographer made several unsuccessful attempts to snap Mr. Duckworth and finally hit on a plan which he thought would work to perfection.

He planted the camera on the counter in the police board office and focused the lens at the door leading to the inner room. Everything was in readiness to squeeze the little snapper as soon as Mr. Duckworth appeared in the doorway. Mr. Photographer had a long wait but he did not mind that in the least as he anticipated a victory.

After waiting for some time he heard the slamming of a door and looking out into the hallway saw Mr. Duckworth at the head of the stairs. Mr. Duckworth had made his escape through the side door.

The photographer was not going to give up without another struggle, however, and running after the retreating commissioner endeavored to snap him, but Chairman Duckworth turned on the camera man and told him he would not stand for a picture and didn't want the young man snapping him.

board. Messrs. Thomas Duckworth, John J. Burns and David A. Parnell, appointed him acting superintendent of police at a meeting held last night. Deputy Supt. Redmond Welch, who has been acting as superintendent, will now resume the duties of his former office.

When it was rumored about the street yesterday afternoon that the board was going to act on the superintendency at night considerable surprise was expressed inasmuch as all three members of the board are unacquainted with the workings of the police department, each having admitted so at the open meetings held Tuesday and last night.

The action was taken at an executive session of the board held last night and none of the commissioners would give any reason for such action.

POLICE BOARD CASE

The Hearing Was Opened in Boston This Afternoon

The police board hearing was opened before Judge Dana in the equity session of the superior court at Boston, today.

The Lowell party went down at 12:12 as the hearing opened at 2 o'clock. The plan as laid out prior to the opening of the hearing was for the counsel for the petitioners to proceed with their case at once and continue without interruption until they had finished.

Lawyer Tierney, counsel for the mayor, stated that he would be ready to make his argument next Monday. In the event of the petitioners finishing their case before Monday lawyer Tierney will ask for a continuance until then, but if they do not he will agree to the case proceeding daily from now on.

It is understood that counsel for the mayor will argue entirely on the conditions in local hotels on Sundays that existed for several months prior to the conference of lawyer Johnson with the members of the deposed board of police.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE

Broke Out in a Store in Middlesex Street This Morning

A suspicious fire broke out in the corner store conducted by Henry Swartz, on Middlesex street early this morning and when discovered by a passerby, was burning brightly.

An alarm from box 42 was sounded at 6:15 a. m. and the department shortly after arriving on the scene had the fire under control.

The fire broke out in a corner in the rear of the store, and the firemen quickly extinguished it.

NEWSBOYS' PICNIC

J. L. Chalifoux's Annual Treat to "De Gang"Five Carloads of Boys Had a Grand Time at Mountain Rock
—Base Ball and a Fine Dinner

"Three cheers for J. L. Chalifoux!" "We'll do better with Mister Chalifoux! He's de candy, all right, all right!"

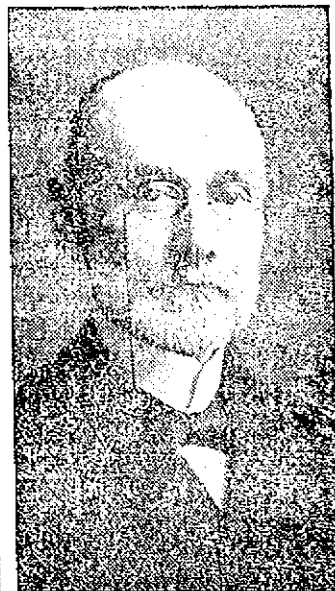

Five carloads of newsboys, all washed and otherwise "dickeyed up" shouted the above as the five carloads pulled out of Merrimack square for Mountain Rock, where Mr. Chalifoux annually entertains the newsboys of Lowell.

For years Mr. Chalifoux has entertained the boys and they couldn't consider the summer enjoyed at all if they didn't have their annual picnic, all their own.

Mr. Chalifoux was assisted in the arrangements by his manager, Mr. Chalifoux and several of his clerks, but the boys are well trained in picnic etiquette and they are comparatively well behaved. All scraps are cut out, on the glorious day and were beside the boys who start a fight at a Chalifoux picnic. He is summarily dealt with by "de gang." Nobody ever gets drowned at a Chalifoux picnic, for as soon as a kid who can't swim shows any intention of going in the water some of the boys jump on him with "slog" and keep yer nose out of de water, you see. De ol' boy wash tub for your hat when yer gets home, see! There ain't no kid going to break up dis show by gettin' drowned. Not on yer nateral!

Upon arrival at the place a red hot baseball game was started and this was followed by other sports until noon when a fine dinner was served, which the youngsters did a fine job of leaving only the dishes behind as grim winners of the completeness of the picnic.

J. L. CHALIFOUX.

Then there were more sports until 3 o'clock when the party returned to Lowell in time for the evening papers.

district of Columbia with a Connecticut regiment. The conflict was a hot one and lasted about an hour.

While this detachment of the Blue was fighting here, Reg. Gen. William A. Brew, commander of the defending forces, was making his headquarters and hurrying them over to the vicinity of Duxbury in an effort to prevent Major General Tinker H. Bliss from getting his forces around the Blue's left wing and proceeding to Boston. It is believed that the object of the Red troops coming to this point was to draw the attention of the Blues away from the main body of the invaders but Gen. Pew said this and left a detachment to settle with the Reds.

Gov. Elihu Draper and Lieut. Gov. Lewis E. Feltchman were interested spectators of the combat.

The soldiers put in much more comfortable night and were in no spirit with the appearance of the sun again this morning.

Then the side army it appeared as though Gen. Bliss had again moved Gen. Pew by a move similar to that executed last Monday below the chain of lakes to the north of New Bedford and the Red army of invasion at 9:30 a. m. today was proceeding on its march to Boston. It seemed to be the general opinion of the Red ranks today that the invaders have been victorious in the campaign and that the hostilities will come to an end today.

If such should be the case, the Red soldiers will return to their homes while the Massachusetts army of invasion will be camped in some place to the north of Boston until Saturday, when the various regiments will proceed to Boston, where the army will be disbanded. Soon after five o'clock this morning the fighting was again resumed. The Reds obtained their main column with Gen. Bliss and his staff was the head of the line, moving northward from the position of the fully side of New Bedford up through Pembroke Center, where the invaders met the conclusion of the main body of the Blues.

At this point the Blues were again victorious in the campaign and that the hostilities will come to an end today.

The Second Connecticut regiment and the District of Columbia brigade fell upon the Blues all along the line of defense which stretched from Gray's Center to Mayflower grove.

The Red field artillery stationed in the woods back of the infantry shell the Blues. The invaders decided that this Blues had successfully held back the Reds for reason of their superior force at Gray's Center. Further along on the Blues' right wing the invaders acted that the fighting was about even although the Reds tell back somewhat and reformed their line.

The First Corps of Cadets held their position in the Pine Grove while the coast artillery and the infantry regiments were swung around and reformed in new positions facing to the east.

During the engagement one of the Washington companies was captured by the Blues but this was offset by the capture of one Blue company by the New York cavalrymen of the invading army.

Gen. Bliss' strategy appeared after the engagement to have been successful for the main force of the Blues was marching uninterruptedly toward Plymouth. Gen. Pew at once began to mass his troops at Pembroke in an endeavor to get the main force of the defending army to Manchester by Cambridge to head off Gen. Bliss' main column. If General Pew is able to concentrate his force at Pembroke, four times the decisive battle of the war will be fought here.

From 8 to 10 o'clock this morning the Blue soldiers marched through the village of Beantown in a steady stream. This included the coast artillery and the second, eighth and ninth regiments of infantry.

MADDERN PIERSON'S NOTICE

Was Without Food on Crazy Raft for 27 Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"By golly, I thought I was a goner!" said Madden Pierson, the missing seaman of the wrecked schooner Arlington, when he was picked up yesterday by the fishing schooner Irene and Mary, after drifting without food, drink or sleep for 27 hours on a crazy raft of jumbled spars. Then he took a long pull from the captain's flask, swallowed a cup of piping hot coffee and turned in without further comment. Not until he awoke from a sound sleep did he complete his narrative.

While Pierson was rolled up in blankets below, Capt. Erickson of the Irene and Mary was making something of a bore of sport, a black, curly-haired giant, the mascot of the schooner. For an hour before the rescue sport had been snuffing the windward air, pawing the raft and yelping excitedly. Puzzled by the dog's behavior the captain kept a sharp lookout, and when he saw what looked like a buoy slipped from its moorings, he headed the schooner for it. Immediately, soon he could make out with the aid of his glasses the figure of a man waving his undershirt. It was Pierson.

Refreshed, fed and in dry clothes, Pierson modestly told his story. He is a big, blonde Swede, 48 years old, with a Viking's mustache.

"I had just made fast a lifeline shot out to us by the coast guard," he said, "when I was washed overboard by a counter. I didn't jump or have time to think of it."

"When I got my head out of the smother of foam I saw a bit of drifting wreckage near me. There were iron bolts on it and loose ends of cordage. With these I lashed myself fast, leaving play enough so that I could stand erect and wave my shirt. It was early morning and I could see that I was rapidly being carried out to sea."

"All day Tuesday I shouted, and waved my flag all last night I fought off sleep and the numbing cold."

"Sixteen vessels, one a revenue cutter, passed me, but I could not attract their attention and I was often out of sight in the trough of the seas."

"At last I could see when the Irene and Mary changed her course that the outlook had brightened. I have been a sailor for 22 years, Parker, the skipper, ever looked so good to me as the Irene and Mary beating up to windward."

When the schooner's dory took Pierson aboard he was almost too weak to stand and too stiff to sit down. "Yes, sir," he repeated when he had recovered his strength. "I thought many a time in these 27 hours I was a goner sure enough."

The rescue of Pierson, 19 miles off Atlantic Highlands and about 18 miles straightaway from the spot on Long beach, on the outer side of Long island, where the Arlington went ashore early Tuesday morning, accounts in full for her captain and crew of nine, now all safely ashore, though the schooner herself is an abandoned hulk.

Pierson was brought to New York last night and fitted out with new clothes by Capt. Erickson. He expects to ship again; wind jamming is his trade.

A $10,000 PURSE

Was Carried Off by Bob Douglass

BUFFALO, Aug. 19.—Bob Douglass, the wonderful 5-year-old stallion owned by D. N. C. Hyams of Ponkapog, Mass., and driven by the Boston champion, Lou McDonald, earned additional championship honors when he won the $10,000 Empire state purse at Fort Erie yesterday afternoon.

The gray out of Todd made himself the fastest trotting stallion of his age when he won in 2:06 1/4 at Cleveland. Yesterday he equalled the best 4th heat ever raced by a trotter, 2:06 1/4, and established new figures for four consecutive heats by a harness horse, 2:06 1/4, 2:07 1/4, 2:08 1/4, 2:09 1/4.

This latter honor should stand on the books for all time as the four heat man of the "senseless system" will die with the close of the present meeting. The 2:06 1/4 for a fourth heat has remained untouched many years, for it was in 1895 that Benzetta trotted the remarkable mile.

Any doubts as to the gameness of Douglass have been removed, for now on racing points of no severity, test than this grandson of Bingen was subjected to. In Carroll he met a sterling race-horse, who fairly out-trotted himself, surprising everyone, even his trainer, by forcing the issue from start to finish.

The first two heats were comfortable for the Massachusetts horse, but in the third he had to tramp the last quarter in 31 seconds to stay on Carroll, and McDonald was giving him considerable attention.

Shank took the race to the gray fellow in the fourth mile and a fierce battle resulted. They were down to the quarter in 3:12, to the half in 1:04, and three-quarters in 1:33 1/2. The Todd horse always having a slight advantage. Two tired trotters swung into the stretch for the race home, and while the clip grew slower, neither trotter did aught but try. Douglass, however, had the more foot and the finish was not close.

McDonald seems to have the $10,000 events through the circuit pretty well looked after. The three already decided his own, and for the Massachusetts at Reading he has Margie, while Bob Douglass is in the Charter Oak. At Syracuse neither one of his cracks will start, but Margie is entered at Columbus.

The 2:16 and 2:21 trots yesterday were not interesting. Geers easily won the slow event with Frazee and now has the world's record of having won 12 heats to land four first money. The Arion horse did not have to race within seven seconds of his record.

In the other event Rose Mary Chimes was not so lucky, for she had to go in 2:12 1/4, a new record. Rathbone should have won all four heats, but in the fourth he started his drive too late and could not overtake Naamoo. Rose Mary Chimes is a daughter of Climes and Lucille's Baby, who was out of that good trotter Lucille, 2:27.

As a feature of the closing program, which includes the 2:07 trot and 2:20 pace, The Red and Allen Wilson will meet in a special match.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The Yankee Doodle Quartet, one of the best vocal quartets ever organized and easily the leading musical aggregation of the New England, will appear in a special program, which includes the 2:07 trot and 2:20 pace. The Red and Allen Wilson will meet in a special match.

STAR THEATRE

Madame Tessier, Lowell's celebrated blind singer, is entertaining large audiences at the Star theatre daily with latest illustrated songs. There is also a male singer.

A new talking machine and two new songs are features of today's program. Although there was a complete change of pictures Wednesday, an entirely new program of motion pictures will be presented tomorrow.

The admission of five cents includes a seat. It is the biggest and best show in Lowell.

THEATRE VOYONS.

There are two feature subjects at the Theatre Voyons today and each is as different as can be from the other. One, "The Wild Ass Skin" is founded on a romance by Balzac and is staged by Pathe. It is an interesting story well acted and one that will make a hit. "The Wild Ass Skin" is an American biographical and follows the style of that film closely. It tells of a beautiful girl who lives in New York who has two lovers, one a bashful, retiring, but true man and the other a man of the world, witty and clever, but a scamp. The woman loves the scamp and he jilts her. The scamp then gets her other lover to turn her from the stock market and when he does so she has a severe pang on her old lover and marries the true man.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

"A Broken Wedding Ring" the play that the Joe J. Flynn stock company is putting on at the Lakeview theatre this week, has hit the popular fancy all right, for every one proclaims "this is the best play that this popular stock company has put on yet."

It is the last work of the stock company as Mr. Flynn has announced to leave this company, appear at another one of his many summer theatres.

The attraction next week the management has selected a bright, snappy musical comedy, entitled "The Hazard Ship." With new songs and elaborate scenery, and costumes, and a story with all new music, this should make this first week of musical comedy at Lakeview theatre one that will please.

TYNGBORO GRANGE

The members of the Tynbboro Grange are enjoying an outing at Reading today. A special car took the grangers from Tynbboro to the beach early this morning. After tanning in the beach, Wendenburg was visited and a general good time had.

Master Randall will sing tomorrow night, 11:30 Club, Bell's room.

WILLARD, AEROPLANE, MAKING GOOD WITH CURTISS MACHINE

MINNEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Before Glenn H. Curtiss, the well-known aviator, went abroad to engage in the international contests at Rheims, France, he sold to the Aeroplane society, the flying machine in which he had made several successful flights. The society put the Curtiss machine into the hands of one of its youngest and most enterprising members, Charles Foster Willard, and the latter has justified the trust by making some remarkable flights at Minneola, N. Y. Although Mr. Willard has been flying only about three weeks and should, according to the rules of the game as played by other aviators, still be trying out his wings, in one of his early flights he broke the Wrights' record for a straightaway cross country flight with a turn. The feat was made in an interesting race between the Willard flying machine, up in the air, and an airplane driven by William S. G. and J. J., which kept to the ground.

It was also voted to have Chief Henry J. Laffey purchase three down beds for the meeting hall, so that each of the fire commissioners and each fireman will have one.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Councilman Joseph H. Jodoin of ward six and Miss Annie T. McCue, a popular young resident of ward two, took place yesterday afternoon at St. Patrick's parish residence, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John J. McHugh acting pastor. The bride was attended by Miss Minnie McCabe and the best man was Mr. Arthur F. Jodoin, a brother of the groom. The bride was charmingly gowned in white silk with flowered lace trimmings and she carried a huge cluster of sweet peas. The bridegroom was groomed in white mouseline de seie and also carried sweet peas. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the groom, 152 West Sixth street, where a reception was held, the happy couple receiving the congratulations of a host of friends and a wealth of beautiful presents. The shopmates of the groom presented him with a traveling case and a well stocked cigar case in which were snugly tucked away $25 in gold. A scrumptious wedding supper was served, the party being done by Mr. Augustus Jodoin. During the evening there was music by Rourke's orchestra, piano solos by Mr. Thomas Kelly and Misses Annie Dolan, May and Teresa Galka, songs by Miss Blanche A. Jodoin. The platters surrounding the house were decorated with Japanese lanterns and as the happy couple departed at 9 o'clock red fire was burned and confetti distributed. Mr. and Mrs. Jodoin will enjoy two weeks at the beach and on their return will reside at 4 Cross street.

NIGHT EDITION

MICHAEL KILDERRY

Found Dead in Bed in His Brothers' Home

Michael Kilderry, of New York, was found dead in bed this morning at the home of his brother, Thomas Kilderry, 84 Elm street. Death was due to heart trouble.

Kilderry was visiting his brother in this city for a few days and was apparently in the best of health when he retired last night.

When he did not put in an appearance at the usual hour this morning one of the occupants of the house went to his room and found his body lying on the bed.

Besides his brother he leaves three sisters. The remains will be sent to New York by Undertaker McDermott for interment.

LAWYER FOUND DEAD

Two Bullet Wounds in the Region of His Heart

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 19.—The body of Albert Gerald, a prominent young lawyer was found lying in the front yard of his home on the fashionable East Side today with two bullet wounds, an inch apart in the region of his heart. His family were away for the summer and it was the theory of the police today that he was reading in his library early this morning when he heard some one prowling about the house and upon investigation came suddenly upon a burglar who before the lawyer could grapple with him pulled a revolver and fired. Then the police think the burglar dropped the revolver beside the body with the idea of making it appear a suicide.

Gerald was 38 years of age and was a member of the law firm of Edwards and Angell. He dined with a friend last evening and returned to his home in excellent spirits shortly after ten o'clock after having made arrangements to meet the friend this morning. That was the last time he was seen alive.

This forenoon Henry Trew, a carpenter who was working upon the house next door to the Gerald home, discovered the body lying face downwards.

Beside it was a 38 calibre revolver of five chambers. Two chambers contained empty shells while the other three were loaded. The body was dressed. His coat was thrown open and his vest was badly burned, giving evidence that the revolver was held close to the body when it was fired. Medical Examiner Jay Perkins stated that he would hold an autopsy probably late this afternoon.

A search of the clothing showed that there was no money in the pockets and a valuable watch which he was known to have had last evening was missing.

REV. FR. CALLAHAN

Former Lowell Priest Transferred

Several more changes are announced among the curates in the Catholic churches in the archdiocese. Rev. Father Leo J. Logan, who recently said his first mass in South Boston, has been appointed by the archbishop to St. Joseph's church, Medford. Father Logan is a Boston boy, and has just come back after extensive travel and studies abroad. Father Logan is very popular in Boston, and his appointment to the parish of St. Joseph is pleasing to his host of friends in that city.

In addition to this appointment other changes have been made. Rev. John L. Callahan, who was assistant to Father Twomey at St. Eulalie's, City Point, for several years, has been transferred to St. Paul's, Hingham. Father Callahan is very well known in Boston, particularly in the South Boston section, where he has labored for many years. Father Callahan takes with him the best wishes of the parishioners of St. Eulalie's. Rev. Fr. Callahan was formerly attached to St. Patrick's church, this city, prior to his assignment to South Boston, and is a brother of Rev. Timothy Callahan.

Father John J. Murphy, who for several years labored at St. Joseph's, Medford, has been appointed by the archbishop to take the place left vacant at St. Eulalie's by the transfer of Father Callahan. Father Murphy is very well known in Boston, and his appointment as assistant priest at St. Eulalie's is a promotion.

THAT FOUNTAIN SUSPICIOUS FIRE

Broke Out in a Store in Middlesex Street This Morning

A suspicious fire broke out in the variety store conducted by Harry Swartz, at 555 Middlesex street early this morning and when discovered by a passerby, was burning briskly.

An alarm from box 42 was sounded at 2:45 o'clock and the department shortly after arriving on the scene had the fire under control.

The fire started on a counter in the shop and Assistant Chief Norton after making a thorough inquiry decided that it would be well to have the cause of the blaze investigated. He therefore notified the fire marshal's office to send a man to this city to look into the matter.

Mr. Swartz, who conducts the store, said that when the place was closed at 11:20 o'clock last night everything was all right so far as he knew.

The Fred C. Church company carried the insurance on the stock.

STAGING BROKE

Man Injured at Bigelow Carpet Co.

Thomas P. Callahan of 33 Fourth street, met with a painful accident while at work at the Bigelow Carpet company this afternoon. He was at work fixing some stalling when one of the boards of the staging which he was standing on broke and allowed him to drop to the floor. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the Lowell hospital where it was found that outside of a slight shaking up he sustained several minor bruises.

POLICE BOARD CASE

The Hearing Was Opened in Boston This Afternoon

The police board hearing was opened before Judge Dana in the equity session of the superior court at Boston, today.

The Lowell party went down at 12:12 as the hearing opened at 2 o'clock. The plan as laid out prior to the opening of the hearing was for the counsel for the petitioners to proceed with their case at once and continue without interruption until they had finished.

Lawyer Tierney, counsel for the mayor, stated that he would be ready to make his argument next Monday. In the event of the petitioners finishing their case before Monday Lawyer Tierney will ask for a continuance until then, but if they do not he will agree to the case proceeding daily from now on.

It is understood that counsel for the mayor will argue entirely on the conditions in local hotels on Sundays that existed for several months prior to the conference of Lawyer Johnson with the members of the deposed board of police.

J. Chalifoux's Annual Treat to "De Gang"

Five Carloads of Boys Had a Grand Time at Mountain Rock—Base Ball and a Fine Dinner

"Tree cheers for J. Chalifoux!" "We'd do better with Mister Chalifoux? He's de candy, all right, all right!"

Five carloads of newsboys, all washed and otherwise "dressed up" shouted the above as the five carloads pulled out of Merrimack square for Mountain Rock, where Mr. Chalifoux annually entertains the newsboys of Lowell.

For years Mr. Chalifoux has entertained the boys and they wouldn't consider the summer enjoyed at all if they didn't have their annual picnic, all their own.

Mr. Chalifoux was assisted in the arrangements by his manager, Mr. Chalifoux, and several of his clerks, but the kids are well trained in picnic etiquette and they are comparatively well behaved. All scraps are cut out on this glorious day and are beside the boy who starts a fight at a Chalifoux picnic. He is summarily dealt with by "de gang." Nobody ever gets drowned at a Chalifoux picnic, for as soon as a kid who can't swim shows any intention of going in the water some older head holds him up with "Say, Kid, do keep yer nose outta dat wet goods, see? De ol' boy wash dis for your bat' wen yer gets home, see? Dere ain't no kid going to break up dis show by gettin' drowned. Not on yer natural!"

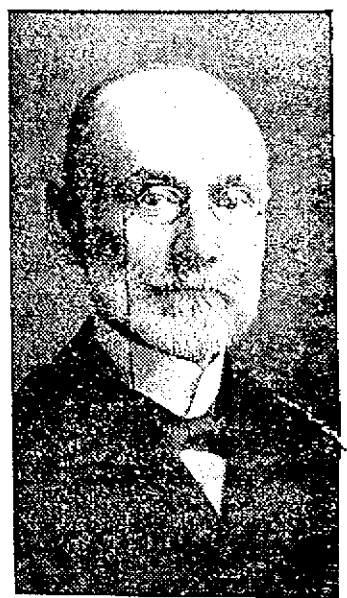

Upon arrival at the grove a red hot baseball game was started and this was followed by other sports until noon when a fine dinner was served, on which the youngsters did a fine job, leaving only the dishes behind as grim witnesses of the completeness of the slaughter.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Preparing His Speeches for the Western Trip

BEVERLY, Aug. 19.—Only through "unconscious cerebration" is President Taft preparing for his many speeches to be made on the long western and southern trip. By this same method the president also is working on his annual message to congress.

Mr. Taft is determined that the risks of the fall and winter shall be sufficient and a member of the liquor squad. During his campaign the respondent made speeches from the street corners and the tons of liquor carts and in those speeches said he would remove the police board as it was corrupt.

"Prior to the filing of the original charges the mayor hired two lawyers, who spent ten days looking over the records of the police department."

"The mayor ordered the commissioners to send their records to city hall, which they declined to do, but they ordered their books for the inspection of the mayor's counsel at the office of the police board."

"The mayor himself looked over the records and as a result he and his counsel made out some 40 or more charges against the commissioners."

The case is wrapped in secrecy, not even the name of the woman named Mrs. McKeon, in her suit has been given out.

Joseph W. Harburger, a lawyer, was appointed referee in the case and is being held in the city hall by the "Herald" O. R. W. applied for McKeon.

TAUGHT TO EARN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19.—With the theory that purely academic studies in the grammar schools have outlived their usefulness in this commercial age, Superintendent of schools, William H. Elson, will introduce this fall one of the most radical reorganizations in school curriculum ever attempted.

While the academic studies will not be wholly abandoned, the whole trend of thinking will be toward commercial life, with the aim of teaching the child to earn his money, and thus to be a citizen.

The changes will take place in the fourth and fifth years of schooling. The first year will be devoted to the study of the history of the world, and the second year to the study of the history of the United States. The third year will be devoted to the study of the history of the United States, and the fourth year to the study of the history of the United States.

6 O'CLOCK LIEUT. BROSNAN

Has Been Placed in Charge of the Police Department

Lieut. James Brosnan has been made the head of the Lowell police department. Major, Brosnan's new position is a promotion from his former position as chief of the police department.

heard. Messrs. Thomas, Duckworth, John J. Harris and David A. Bartholomew, appointed their acting superintendent of police at a meeting held last night. Deputy Supt. Richmond, who has been acting as superintendent, will now resume the duties of his former office.

When it was rumored that the street yesterday afternoon that the board was going to act on the superintendent at night, considerable surprise was expressed inasmuch as all three members of the board are well acquainted with the workings of the police department, each having admitted as at the open meetings held Tuesday and last night.

The action was taken at an executive session of the board, held last night and none of the commissioners would give any reason for such action.

Lieut. Brosnan is one of the best known officers on the force, having worked his way step by step from orinary patrolman to lieutenant. He has been commended for bravery on several occasions and wears a star on the side of his face which he received while arresting a dangerous character.

Hearings Postponed

The board of police also held an open session last night in which the hearing on the cases of alleged violation of the liquor laws by Anthony Robinson and John J. Brosnan of the Franklin House were called. As in the other cases, a continuance was granted in both cases, the time for six weeks. The hearing on the former case was set for Sept. 29, and on the latter Sept. 20.

Discussed Police Matters

Acting Superintendent Brosnan and Chairman Thomas Duckworth of the police board met at the office of the board and spent a long time in conference in the inner office, discussing police matters.

Questioned by a representative of The Sun if there would be any changes in the makeup of the department, Acting Supt. Brosnan said: "There will be no changes at the present time. I have nothing to say at present, but will let you know if anything is done."

Later in the morning, Commissioner Burns called at the police station and conferred with the newly appointed official in the latter's office.

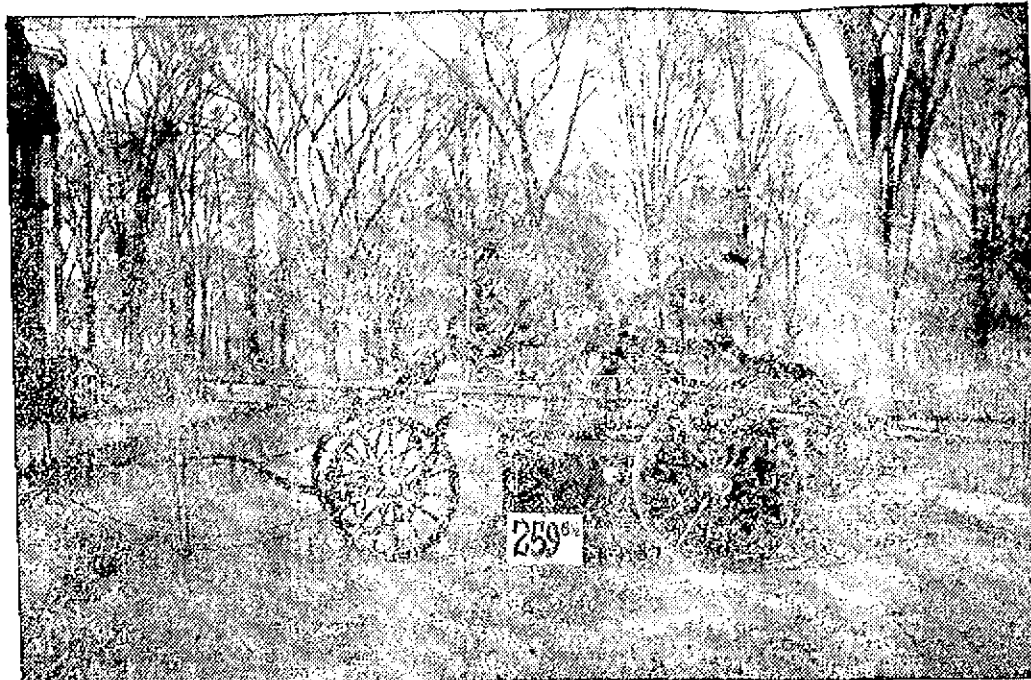

Chairman Duckworth was much adverse to his picture appearing in the papers, frustrated the well laid plans of a newspaperman who called at the office this morning for the purpose of securing a snap shot of the chairman.

The photographer made several unsuccessful attempts to snap Mr. Duckworth and finally hit on a plan which he thought would work to perfection.

He placed the camera on the counter in the police board room and focused the lens at the door leading into the inner room. Every time there was a readiness to squeeze the little bulb just as soon as Mr. Duckworth appeared in the doorway. Mr. Duckworth had a long wait but he did not mind that in the least as he anticipated a victory.

After waiting for some time he heard the shuffling of a foot and looking into the doorway saw Mr. Duckworth at the head of the stairs. Mr. Duckworth had made his escape through the side door.

The photographer was not going to give up without another struggle, however, and running after the retreating commissioner, endeavored to snap him, but Chairman Duckworth turned on the camera man and told him he would not stand for a picture and did not want the young man annoying him.

FIREMEN'S MUSTER

Big Event Was Held in City of Lawrence Today

The annual muster of the New England Firemen's association is being held at Lawrence today and the boys of the city have been turned over to the red shirts. The buildings along the principal thoroughfares are attractively decorated with flags, bunting and emblems symbolic of the vocation of the firemen.

MUCH IMPROVED

GIRL MAY BE SPARED BLOOD TRANSFUSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Although blood from more than a score of men has been tested by physicians attending Miss Cole Kessler, who lies in a weakened state in St. Luke's hospital, the doctors have not as yet discovered a suitable donor. It is said to be a matter of time before a suitable donor will be found. The condition of Miss Kessler was much improved yesterday, and if she continues to gain in strength the transfusion will not be necessary. However, all those who are offering to sell their blood are being carefully examined, so that if the step becomes imperative it can be taken without delay.

Mr. Walton Martin is in charge of the case. A great deal of secrecy is being maintained by officials of the hospital, who object to publicity in connection with the case. "Such transfusions are of ordinary occurrence," says Superintendent Long, "but the hospital, through courtesy of the donor, does not happen every day."

The blood is usually transfused by opening an artery in the arm of the person who desires to be bled, and passing the fluid through a tube into an artery in an arm of the patient. A delicate gauge registers the quantity of the fluid which flows, and physicians of the great caution so as not to take more than the volume of blood space from his body.

BOY KILLED

WHILE IN SEARCH OF A PLAY-GROUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A three-year-old boy was killed today in the crowded playground near his home at No. 208 West Sixty-fourth street. The boy, named David, was found dead in the street. The cause of the death is not yet known.

Young David and three boy friends of their home and sought a new playground on the far side of the Death Avenue yards, which intervene between their home and an open lot beyond. A long line of freight cars barred their passage across the tracks, but the train had been standing still so long that the youngsters took a chance and, seeing David in the lead, started to climb through over the humpers.

Just as the boy stood on his veranda porch between the cars, they started forward with a jerk. He was flung down to the ground, with his legs across the tracks. The first car passed his legs from his body and struck the tip, but the whole train passed over him before Policeman Higgins carried his broken body from the yard.

Young David died on the way to the flower hospital. Dr. Richard Jenkins and Dr. Wm. Sprague, of the freight train, were arrested upon the technical charge of homicide.

SEARCH FOR MISSING CRAFT

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Agent C. E. Metzger of the Philadelphia & Reading Co. when informed of the loss of the Shawmut immediately ordered the captain of the tug Valley Forge to make another search for the missing craft.

Agent Metzger also learned today of the damage done by Tuesday's gale to two other of the company's craft. The large Franklin for Portland and the large Curry for Portsmouth in tow of the tug Carlele reached Norfolk today with their tillers battered by the seas. The tug proceeded for New Bedford with the tillers where they will be repaired, the barges remaining at Norfolk.

THE GOULD DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Application for a final decree of divorce against Frank Jay Gould will be made in the supreme court next Monday by Helen K. Gould. Three months ago she was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce upon the recommendation of Richard G. Whitaker, the referee who heard the testimony. Rose Winter, a former actress in "The Prima Donna," was named as the co-respondent.

Three months from the date of the signing of the interlocutory decree a final decree may be entered. The appearance of the final decree is not certain.

By the terms of the court's decision the two children are permitted to spend their time alternately with their father and mother.

SEVEN CADETS

Were Dismissed From West Point Academy

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 18.—By direction of President Taft seven cadets were dismissed from the United States military academy today for being involved in the luring of Roland Sutton, Cadet Sutton is a brother of Lieut. James Sutton of the naval academy whose death was investigated at Annapolis recently.

The cadets ordered to be dismissed are John Barker, Jr. of West Point, Va., first class; Richard W. Hodge, Kansas City, third class; Eric W. being maintained by officials of the hospital, who object to publicity in connection with the case. "Such transfusions are of ordinary occurrence," says Superintendent Long, "but the hospital, through courtesy of the donor, does not happen every day."

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—A warm gentle breeze greeted the tennis enthusiasts and players when they gathered on the picturesque court of the tennis club for the annual tournament. The weather was much improved and the conditions were much improved after the two days of rain. The courts had dried in considerably and were in a very satisfactory condition. The two days' delay had not diminished interest in the tournament, which was evidenced by the early filling up of the huge grand stand and with the large sale of tickets in advance a record attendance was the general expectation.

Interest in today's play centered of course on the Doubles championship match between H. H. Hobart and E. R. Alexander of New York the holders of the title and G. J. Jones and M. L. McLaughlin of San Francisco, the challengers. Both teams appeared in one shape and impatient to settle the question of supremacy after the two days' postponement. While the present champions were apparently the favorites the game of the westeners was of rather an unknown quality and the result of the match was eagerly awaited.

With the object of expediting play in the all-enters singles tournament the courts were closed early in the day and Mr. DeWitt, president of the association, announced that the play would be pushed as rapidly as possible. At the close of yesterday's play the entire first round had been disposed of and today the first of the 37 matches in the second round were begun. There was considerable speculation as to whether or not the match between W. J. Cloughier and A. S. Doherty would be played as rain was in circulation that Doherty had contracted.

NEW MILL OF THE LAWRENCE MANUFACTURING CO.

THE NEW MILL

Of the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. is Nearly Completed

The large new building in Perkins street to be used for spinning by the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. is practically completed. The building is 284x160 feet, five stories, and will be twice as large, eventually. It is situated in the mill yard alongside the railroad track, and is one of the largest mill structures in the city. It has a tower that is 100 feet high. The new mill will not add very materially to the number of hands required by the company because of the fact that it is more a case of assembling the mill spinning machinery than of extra building. The mill spinning is now very much scattered and the congestion at present existing will be relieved when the spinning is all under one roof.

The Lawrence Manufacturing company has been running five days a week for several weeks and this work, the company started on full time. The Lawrence employs 4000 hands, and that many hands, families considered, probably represents twice 4000, so that within the 500,000 square feet, as reckoned by the assessors, and which represents about 12 acres, the population of a good sized village is at work. The 500,000 square feet are within the yard proper and then there is tenement property to the extent of about 250,000 feet, so that the Lawrence, tenement property and all, covers about 18 acres.

SCHOOL TEACHER LOSES CITIZENSHIP

Charged With Favoritism by Biddeford Man

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 18.—At the meeting of the superintending school committee last night, which lasted until midnight, Stephen W. Pillsbury caused a sensation by preferring charges of favoritism against Miss Augusta Burbank, for years an assistant teacher in the high school.

He declared that she showed partiality to some of her Latin scholars and ignored others. He bluntly declared that the school board is directed in its duties, and that it fills positions without regard to the opinions and recommendations of the superintendent of schools, who, he believes, is better able to select teachers than the school board.

He claimed that Miss Burbank does not give to his boy any chance. He said she ranked him from guesswork, for she sold him on him to recite, giving the time of recitation to her favorites. He said his boy intended to go to college and to study medicine, and Principal Burbank of the high school, and recommended that the youth, give up Latin, but the school would not agree to this. He said he considered Latin essential for a boy who was going to study medicine.

Mr. Pillsbury asserted that it was the same with his daughter. When she recited French she had an opportunity to recite, and she finally went to Principal Burbank and asked that she might give up the study. The request was granted. Others began to make similar requests, until it looked as if there would be no French class in the high school. Finally, the daughter of Rev. R. N. Newell went to Mr. Burbank with such a request, and upon being asked why she wished to give up French, explained that she was getting no good from the study. Mr. Pillsbury said the trouble with Miss Burbank was that she had taught it long.

Chairman Walker asked Mr. Pillsbury if he would advise dropping Miss Burbank, and he replied that he would. The chairman replied that this would be an impossibility, as Miss Burbank had been elected for a year, and nothing could be done now. Mr. Pillsbury said he would advise the board to prefer his charges before the annual election of teachers in June.

The matter was finally referred to Sept. 1, when it will make an effort to straighten out the matter.

OVER VETO

CONNECTICUT LIBERAL SUNDAY BILL PASSES THE SENATE

HARTFORD, Aug. 18.—The senate yesterday passed the bill for a more liberal Sunday observance over Gov. Weeks' veto by a vote of 13 to 11, and it was immediately transmitted to the house.

Senator Latimer said that under the ruling of the chair he could not offer an amendment which would remove the objections to the bill. He said that the bill, in its present form, cannot result in a public calamity. Another baseball is played on Sundays in the vicinity of every city of the state.

Senator Peck said if the bill became a law baseball would be played in the center of the cities, and he hoped the governor's veto will be sustained. Senator Sears said the governor in his veto did not attack the morals of the bill or that it is wrong to liberalize the Sunday. All statute laws must be general in their terms.

Senator Higgins, speaking in support of the veto, said the governor had other objections to the bill than those which he had stated in his veto. They should not legalize the desecration of the Sabbath.

Appears to be Complacent Over the Tariff Tests

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—President Taft's extended working hours yesterday afternoon were occupied with prominent visitors. He returned from the White House for lunch in good season. Mr. Norton, who is in charge of the company of the cargo, moved from the executive offices in one of the White House vehicles, and talked for a long while.

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Hats off to Manager Joe Judge and his band of young ball players, the Boston Americans, who have defied the baseball dogmatists this year. The remarkable showing of the Red Sox during the present campaign has simply been one of the real surprises of the baseball season of 1939. The president is making no comments about the recent interview given by Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee. That there would be no further tariff tinkering and that the new law would stand unchanged for many years.

On Saturday afternoon at Spalding park the Y. M. C. A. and Wanderers will play against each other in their first league game. These teams are great rivals. In last year's series, the Wanderers and Y. M. C. A. split even, the Wanderers taking the first game and the Y. M. C. A. the second by a 4-3 score. This year, to win the championship, the Y. M. C. A. must win both of the games in the series from the Wanderers.

The Princeton except the challenge of the Y. D. S. for Aug. 25 and would like to meet any other team in the city under 17 years of age for a dollar bill. We will play the St. Anthony's Saturday for five dollars a side, game called at 2:30. We beat St. Anthony's 14 to 10 inings. This year we will be 14 to 10 inings. This year we will be 14 to 10 inings.

The visitors to the Bunting park Saturday will be disappointed if they expect to see the first division teams in the American League. Enthusiasts of cricket are looking forward to this game as being one of the best games of the season.

SHE HAD 16 HATS

Actress Was Held at Customs Office

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Hon. Mrs. Henry Beresford, as her luggage proclaimed her—though she is known better to the stage under the name of Kitty Gordon—arrived from Southampton Tuesday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which docked in Hoboken, went to the Hotel Portland in this city, and from there hustled to a first-class car for the part she is to play as leading woman for Sam Bernard in the new production of "The Wizard." As Kitty Gordon gave her pedigree on the spot, she is the wife of a cousin of Lord Charles Beresford, and her husband, Lord Beresford, happens to be a brother of Lord Deedes.

The wording of her luggage caused the customs inspectors to take a good look at the goods that was brought in by the actress, and they uncovered 16 hats.

"Are you a milliner?" they asked. "Not at all," was the answer. "There isn't a hat in the lot, that I haven't worn at some time or another."

The customs men looked a bit dubious, and then "Hon. Mrs. B." quickly continued. "Well, I think that I have worn them at some time or other. If you will just watch me put them on. You know a woman never gets her hat on straight the very first time. Now, I am able to put every one of these hats on straight, so you can easily see that I have worn each of them at some time."

Thereupon the speaker began putting on the hats one after another, to prove the assertion, but before she had proceeded very far the customs men told her they were satisfied that she was telling the truth.

$6540 VERDICT

HAS BEEN AFFIRMED BY COURT OF APPEALS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Judges Colt, Putnam and Lynch, sitting in the United States circuit court of appeals yesterday the judgment of $6540 in favor of Edmund A. Aubin, a machinist of Nashua, N. H., against the Carter, Rice & Company corporation for personal injuries.

Aubin was injured in the concern's employ while working on a lathe, and was injured by the explosion of wood alcohol. He was working on a lathe, and was injured by the explosion of wood alcohol. He was working on a lathe, and was injured by the explosion of wood alcohol.

The defendant had claimed it was his own negligence in placing the alcohol on the lathe that caused the explosion. The court holds that the defense was not supported by the evidence.

GOLF TOURNAMENT. MANCHESTER, Aug. 17.—With a record-breaking entry list of more than 100 players, including many of the best golfers of the country, the open golf tournament of the Essex Golf and Country Club began here today. The links were in excellent condition after the two days' rain and although the grass was very wet in places, the play was very much preferable to the spectators for the Essex club than the usual condition of the greens after the long drought.

Called a Draw. The winner of the tournament last Saturday was J. Spillane, the Irishman, who will be a good help to the hosts in their game with the Red Sox.

WAS FOUND GUILTY

Petricot Was Fined for Assault and Battery

The sequel to a heaviest in Lakeview avenue last Saturday night was tried before Judge Hadley in police court this morning when the case of Fred Petricot, charged with assault and battery on August Wenzel was called for trial. At the opening of the case an interpreter was pressed into service, but when it was learned that the interpreter had been present at the fight his services were dispensed with. The party where the beer was flowing so freely was held at the home of the defendant's brother. Wenzel said that while he was in the house there was considerable crowding and pushing after which a couple of the men started to handle him rather roughly and later without any provocation whatsoever Petricot struck him in the face, knocking him down. On cross-examination Wenzel said that he had been drinking rather freely and had words with several of the "guests." He also admitted that one Emil Brock "cracked" him an open hand in the face. Wenzel said that Brock was fooling when he hit him, but that Petricot was angry. He denied, however, that he knocked down any of Petricot's children.

One of the witnesses for the government infused a little humor into the case. He acknowledged that he was "pretty well drunk" himself, but remembered the most of what happened. "You say that you were pretty well drunk," said counsel for the defense. "I could stand more."

"Well how drunk were you?" "I couldn't tell for I didn't have any glass to put into me to see how much beer I had drunk."

"There was plenty of beer there anyway, wasn't there?"

"Yes we had beer after the fight and had enough of beer there for the next day. We didn't want to drink the beer up too fast for when the beer was gone we knew that the fun would be over."

Petricot testifying in his own behalf said that the occasion of the party was the christening of one of his brother's children. He said that while the rooms the latter knocked down one of his children. Mrs. Petricot spoke to Wenzel about his action and he answered her in a vile manner. Petricot said that later while he was passing through one of the rooms Wenzel struck him in the stomach. He grabbed Wenzel and placed him in a chair and later two men took Wenzel out in the yard. A short time after that when Petricot went into the yard Wenzel, who was out there, came towards him and he pushed him aside. After summing up the evidence in the case the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $5.

DECISIVE BATTLE

THE INVADERS

MADE A GAIN OF FIVE MILES

YESTERDAY

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—General Taskar H. Bliss and his invading army of the Reds, consisting of troops from Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, the District of Columbia and the 10th regular cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen, tested last night at least five miles nearer Boston than they were 24 hours ago, as a result of yesterday's operations in the middle bay game. The extreme left of the Massachusetts army of defense, known as the Blues, under command of Brigadier General William A. Brew, was hammered unmercifully during the morning so that the entire left wing was forced to retreat and in addition the Blues suffered the loss of one battery and a wagon.

For superior in actual numbers and in cavalry the Red force swept down upon the Blues left and smashed first into one position and then another with irresistible force. For the past three days, Gen. Bliss has moved his army in three divisions massed with the full strength of his cavalry on his left flank. In other words, the flying squadrons has been between his infantry strength and the Blue army, and an invincible strength it proved to be with the experienced Tenth ordered cavalry to harass life and purpose into the volunteer cavalrymen from the District of Columbia and New York. Both Tuesday and yesterday the work of the cavalry arm was most brilliant and of unaided assistance.

At the beginning of the war at 8 o'clock last Sunday morning up to noon yesterday the Red army of the Blues has practically done all the fighting for Gen. Bliss and it was only in the last hour of yesterday's battle, it is said, that the Red army was ordered into action.

While yesterday's fighting forced Gen. Bliss to retreat and moved his headquarters from the pond back to South Hanson, the engagement was regarded as merely a preliminary to a greater battle which will be fought, probably today. Indications last night were that the center of this engagement would be somewhere in the vicinity of Indian Head pond in the town of Lynn.

As was indicated in Tuesday night's despatches, Gen. Bliss endeavored yesterday morning to move his right wing, the First brigade, by a retrograde movement from its position in and around Bridgewater to a point east of South Hanson, there to reinforce the Second brigade on the left wing, which was facing the entire Red army. Forced marches were made during the entire morning, but up to 1 p. m. the hour when fighting ceased, they had not arrived in sufficient numbers to be of any assistance.

While Gen. Bliss was making this endeavor, Gen. Bliss changed his tactics and forming his entire army in one long single column, with the cavalry on the left flank, drove straight for the Blue extreme left. The forces met at North Plympton, where the Blues had only the one regiment, part of the 1st corps of cadets, and Battery B. Although the comparatively small force of the Blues forced to retreat by reason of the superior numbers of the enemy. During this engagement, Lieut. Col. Thomas Talbot of the 1st corps of cadets, was thrown from his horse and suffered a severe injury to a leg that he was removed in an automobile to the division hospital for treatment.

The Blues made a stubborn retreat, covering the withdrawal of their wagon train, which was moving north as fast as possible toward the main base at South Hanson. Meanwhile, Gen. Bliss has extended his line far around the Blue's end in a circular movement from east to north, with the colored troops from the District of Columbia as the point of the Reds. Strongly supported by the infantry, the colored boys went about half way around the circle and found the Blue's 9th infantry and Battery C at Bryn Mawr. The Blues, their commander, the colored "Reds" went through some dense woods and quite by accident advanced between the First and Second battalions of the 30th Massachusetts, unhappily hitting the battery, which was in the main highway. A hot engagement took place at that point, but just as the two battalions of Blues awoke to the fact that they had the Reds between them and were turning to take them a cresside, the hour of 1 p. m. came, the whistle of the umpire sounded and the fighting stopped.

While this was going on, some of the Blues had retreated from Plympton to the schoolhouse at Grover's farm, one mile east of Halifax, where in an ideal fighting ground a new stand was made. Three companies of the 5th infantry, and one of the 8th and two Dragoon-brother machine guns on an elevated position at one side of the road, which had been occupied by the Blues, were in a commanding place on high ground in their rear. At this point there were 215 men in the Blue force. Pressing them hard were five troops of District of Columbia cavalry and three troops of the 9th cavalry, more than 400 men.

The fighting began in earnest about 11 o'clock, and owing to the open nature of the country it was the prettiest engagement of the day from a spectacular standpoint. First the Reds flanked the machine guns and then, effectively, killed all the Blues behind them, forcing them to abandon the schoolhouse for an impregnable standpoint because the Blue artillerymen only pointed the guns in one direction and failed to show over the ridge territory which the game commanded.

Advancing in a half circle, the Reds prepared to lay their guns on the Battery B and were making progress, the great guns in that section when the K. of the 1st infantry and a battalion of the 3rd corps of cadets, under command of Adj. Gen. Harold of the Blues, made a sensational entrance on the scene, appearing in the style they used the K. of the Blues, they were driving them back when the umpire's whistle announced that fighting was over for the day.

During the day of the war, many thousands of men were killed and many more wounded. The war was a great tragedy, and the people of the world are still suffering from its effects. The war was a great tragedy, and the people of the world are still suffering from its effects.

CLASSY BACKSTOPS ARE NOT NUMEROUS THIS SEASON

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE classy catcher is a rare bird. It seems at times that the magnates spend too much time and money in building up great pitching staffs without reckoning on good receivers.

The catcher rather than the pitcher is the real mainspring of the baseball machine. Stationed behind the batsman, he has greater opportunities than the pitcher for observing what a certain batter can and cannot hit. Knowing the man with whom he works, he can tell if his curves are breaking right, can make him work slowly when he is inclined to hurry and can make him hurry when he inclines to the contrary.

Watcher of Bases.

The catcher is the chief watcher of the bases when occupied, passes signals for the pitcher throwing to catch runners too far from the bags and signals the proper time for delivering the ball to the bat.

Aside from all this mental effort, he must snatch off any kind of curve the pitcher lets loose, must dig up wild pitches that go into the ground and must chase the elusive foul fly. He must block runners who slide into the plate and must take his turn at the bat. All this work keeps a man of average intellect or physical ability quite busy.

Yet the catcher, so the majority of the fans think, is a mere machine that stops the curves thrown by the pitcher that the batter misses. Catching is a difficult job in more ways than one, and good catchers are scarce.

Must Use Judgment in Throwing.

There are many catchers in the business with wonderful throwing arms, and still they are not regarded as particularly dangerous, certainly not as great backstops. The chief reason is that they do not use proper judgment in the use of this ability. Base runners soon come to know how well any catcher throws and what liberties can be taken with him, how big a lead can be taken off any base and whether the catcher is likely to take a chance on nipping him off second at critical moments. Great catchers seldom throw to bases promiscuously. They go after a base runner only when he becomes too bold and gets too far off the bag, making the play practically sure of success. Base runners soon come to fear such a man more than the one who is continually heaving to the infielders. The catcher who is constantly throwing to get base runners stands more chance of making bad and costly throws than the one who is conservative.

Kling's Great Throwing.

The greatest illustration of the value of the conservative throwing catcher was in the fourth game of the world's series played in Detroit last fall between the Chicago Nationals and the Detroit Americans. The fourth inning of that game was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, ever played on a ball field. The Chicago had a lead of two runs, the Detroit not having scored. That inning O'Leary of the Detroit led off with a base hit, and Crawford rapped out another. Cobb was up next, and the situation was dangerous. Every one who witnessed the game will remember how Brown forced Cobb to bunt, thus forcing O'Leary out at third. Then came Kling's great throw to Tinker at second, catching Crawford off that bag and removing the possibility of a run for the American leaguers should Claude Rossman hit safely. These two plays—Cobb's bunt to Brown and Kling's throw catching Crawford—insured the second world's championship for the Chicago team.

Importance of Position.

Outguessing a batter and knowing in which direction a foul ball is going are two things no catcher can ever be taught. There are certain general rules about how to mix up curves, speed and slow balls to a batter, but they are not absolute, and it is up to the catcher to figure out what the man with the stick is looking for and then cross him. There is where head-work counts if it doesn't anywhere else. A catcher can be taught the weakness of the batsman, but he must possess this quality as well or he is merely a mechanical player. The ability to know which way to turn to go after a foul ball is intuitive; it cannot be taught to any man.

Who Is the Greatest?

With Johnny Kling of the Chicago Nationals out, it is a hard task to pick the best catchers in the game today.

excellent man to have on the receiving end of the battery, and before the season closes he may do real first class work. Myers, the Indian, in another year will make the stars look to their laurels.

Brooklyn fans swear by Bill Bergen. They regard him as the backstop of it for about twelve years, however, and is not the catcher physically that he once was. "Nig" Clarke is one of the classiest backstoppers in either league. No receiver can peg any stronger or get the ball away quicker than "Nig" or just as he wishes to be called. Charlie however, and show on the bases. Owens is a clean catcher and a clever thrower. Charley Schmidt has looked good ever since he joined the Detroit ex-capt in the world's series, where he persists in playing like an amateur. If the world's series could be thrown three Cleveland players were the victims. Bradley was on second and Jack McCarthy on first, when Dutch Gochbauer sent a short single to left. Collins got the ball and shot it to catcher Farrell a yard ahead of Bradley. McCarthy was shooting toward the spectators, and Farrell ting a handicap on the pitcher by moving his stick further from the plate or by abolishing the spitball, compelling the outfielders to stand inside a marked square until a ball is hit, so as to prevent "laying for" the batsmen and increasing the resilience of the ball.

So far as pitched, however, no one has suggested increasing the size of the bat itself. It is odd, too, because at any game one hears frequent advice from the spectators urging this or that change to "beat a brown" or "try a spitball pole." There seems to be a unanimity of opinion that if the batsmen were given a bigger stick he could hit better execution, despite the fact few batsmen today use as large bats as the legal limit will permit. Most of the bats will be found, however, to measure close to two and three-quarters inches in diameter at the thickest part, where the batter plans to meet the ball. The differences in bats are chiefly in weight and shape to meet the individual idiosyncrasies of the stars and near stars. If the legal limit were raised to a diameter of three inches, making an increase of a quarter of an inch only, no radical change in the game would be produced, and there would be opportunity for weak batsmen to experiment to their possible advantage. And if that did not produce the desired change there remains the suggestion to increase slightly the size of the ball itself. This could not be made much larger with-

Some of the Leading Catchers of the American and National Leagues.

There are at least five catchers in the National League who seem to run a close race for first honors. If a vote were taken as to who was the greatest backstop in the older organization the men named would undoubtedly be chosen. Archer, who succeeded Moran as the Cubs' regular backstop, is doing the lion's share of the catching for Chicago. Schiel is doing the bulk of the work for the New York Giants. Bergen is considered the best catcher that Brooklyn has had in years. Gibson is the hero of the Pittsburgh Pirates, while St. Louis fans will swear by Roger Bresnahan. Philadelphia fans and critics alike say that Charley Doolin is Kling's successor.

Chicago fans think that Archer is one of the greatest men that ever appeared behind the bat. Even the Cubs' manager says he doesn't miss Kling a little bit and that Archer fills the shoes of the absent one perfectly. True, he has been a big factor in their winning many games this season, and he is a terror to any players that attempt to steal bases on him, for he can throw with the accuracy of a crow's flying. He also is not the worst batter in the game, but has the happy faculty of being able to hit when his mean runs. But don't let the idea run away with you that he is as good as Kling. The latter was one of the greatest catchers that ever donned a mask.

It has been due to Gibson's superb catching that the Pittsburgh pitchers have been twirling in such smooth fashion this season. His work behind the bat probably has been the best of any backstop up to date, while he hits like a demon.

Schiel, New York's catcher, has not yet got into the stride that he pursued when he was with the Cincinnati Reds, but he has shown that he is an marvel of the league. He pulls off hair-raising catches of fouts day after day, and he mows down opponents who try to steal bases on him. His work with the stick is not very good, but with a little practice he would develop into a great swatter and surely become a strong contestant for premier backstop honors.

Roger Bresnahan used to be regarded the foremost catcher in the country; but, having the managerial responsibilities of the St. Louis Cardinals upon his shoulders, he has practically relinquished the duties of back-also has more passed balls than some of the other stars. As for Ted Easterly, he is above the average as a catcher, a thrower and a stickler. Both the Cleveland catchers are strong in blocking a runner at the plate and in getting the ball on him, Clarke being the superior of the two. Outside of the first mentioned, the best catchers in the American league are Kleinow of New York, Stephens of St. Louis, Corrigan of Boston, Stange and Schmidt of out Schmidt would rank among the foremost catchers of the two leagues. It that he cannot be so bad or Detroit would not have won two pennants with Schmidt doing most of the catching. This season Schmidt has done but little work behind the bat, giving way to the youngster Stange. The latter has given an excellent account of himself this season. Boston has two good catchers in Corrigan and Donohue, the latter be-throw back to Collins to get Jack. The toss was poor, and McCarthy tried to score. Jimmy proved a good retriever. He chased the ball to left, recovered it and spun it home in time to get McCarthy. Gochbauer, who had been having a nap on second all this time, now started for third, and again Farrell's throw was poor. The catcher at third took the long chance and waved the "go home" signal to Goch. Johnny kept on, if going at the top speed he used to travel can be called "keeping on." "Make it three, Jimmy," yelled the crowd, and Collins did. He fouled the ball somewhere out in left field and by a long and accurate throw to Farrell retired the third and last Cleveland runner. The scores' books after it was all over looked a good deal like a page of copy that a reporter for a Chinese newspaper might have prepared.

SCHEMES TO INCREASE HITS.

Latest Expedient Is the Use of Bigger Bats and Balls.

Those wisacres of the baseball world who have been burning up gray matter for several seasons trying to devise a way to help the batsman in his losing struggle against the steadily increasing perfection in the defensive end of the game have overlooked a more simple expedient than has been suggested, and one which is worthy of a trial if "Moose" was a newspaper woman before more batting is desired. Among the schemes devised and discarded have been widening the angle of the foul, dealing with stage life, which she is lines, so as to produce more fair territory for the fielders to protect; put-out a loud protest from the fielders and the possible ruination of the defense, but a slight addition to the size of both bat and ball surely would show results in batting without any other perceptible effect on the game.

THREE LEADING HORSE PILOTS OF THE ENGLISH TURF.

Johnny Bull has an abundance of good jockeys this season. Among the best the splendid riding of Madden, Higgs and Wootton stands out as best. The work of the latter in the saddle has been the sensation of the English turf this season. He is now leading the winning horse pilots with a big majority. Wootton is the youngest jockey on the turf abroad. He has just passed his fifteenth birthday. Wootton played his first winner in a race when he was ten years old.

stop. He very seldom plays now, and when he does don the "cage" he doesn't display his old time form. Phelps, who is doing the main part of the backstopping for the Cardinals, is a splendid catcher, a good thrower and a first class field general.

Larry McLean is doing some excellent work behind the bat for Cincinnati. McLean is a ready catcher, a good batter and has an arm of steel, but is not very accurate in his throwing.

Doolin of Philadelphia is a grand backstop. He is an excellent thrower and a great field general. Much of the Phillies' pitchers' good work is due to Doolin's knowledge of the weakness of many star batters.

The way the writer starts up the catchers is as follows: Gibson, Doolin, Bresnahan, Bergen, Schiel, McLean, Archer, Myers and Graham.

Hard to Pick Best in American.

In the American league you can easily name the four classy catchers, Sullivan of Chicago, Criger of St. Louis, Street of Washington and Clarke of Cleveland. Lou Criger for years was rated as the best catcher in the American league, and he is still one of the greatest. He has been at Detroit and Ira Thomas of the Athletics. Stephens is one of the youngest men in the league, but he has a wise old head on his young shoulders—in fact, McAleer regards him as his most valuable catcher.

Washington Has Prize in Street.

In Washington has one who ranks with the best. He caught 134 games last year and seldom had a bad day and has done the bulk of the backstopping this year. He gets the ball away like a shot, is a very sure thrower and hits fairly well. By all odds he is the best catcher that broke into either of the big leagues within the last two years. Jack Kleinow of New York has gone back a little. At that he is doing better work than he did in 1908, when he was not in the first division. When Kleinow is on, there are few better behind the bat than he. Bill of the New York looks like a champion, for he is a good catcher and excellent thrower. Sullivan, the big boy from Atlanta, is a good youngster, but lacks experience, and may be heard from in the future.

Outside of Billy Sullivan, Chicago has Payne and Owens. Payne can catch any pitcher living and do it well. He is erratic in holding and throwing ing a brother to "Jiggs" Donohue of the Chicago White Sox. Pat has many of his older brother's ways on the diamond and is really a fast man. He puts the ball on the runner well at the plate and looks as if he were due to remain in the league. Corrigan is a hardworking backstopper and can be depended upon for good work. He is one of the best batting catchers in the league.

Conkle Mack has worked wonders with Ira Thomas. The latter was a failure as a backstop when a member of the New York and Detroit clubs. Thomas is now one of the best batting catchers in the league, a ready backstop and a splendid thrower. Livingston, his partner, is promising.

In ranking the American catchers the writer would place them in the following order: Sullivan, Clarke, Schiel, Criger, Stephens, Thomas, Schmidt, Kleinow and Corrigan.

THREE REMARKABLE PLAYS.

Captain Harry Lind of the Boston Americans is a rattling good third baseman, but it is doubtful if he ever threw out three men at the plate on one batted ball, as Jimmy Collins, one of his great predecessors, once did. This happened in Boston in 1901, and

HENRY B. HARRIS, PROMINENT THEATRICAL MANAGER.

Henry B. Harris is one of the youngest acting theatrical managers who have made both fortune and reputation in the business. At the present time he is one of the largest New York theatres and is the responsible head of no less than twenty-two attractions of a high order of merit. Mr. Harris began his theatrical career as a prompter. Recently he was elected president of the National Association of Theatrical Managers of America.

BEAUTIFUL HEDWIG REICHER, WHO IS TO STAR IN AMERICA.

Franklin Hedwig Reicher, who has been a retaining success in leading German theatres for several years, is to make her debut as an English speaking actress the coming season in America. The play selected for her initial appearance in this country is entitled "On the Eve," a drama of contemporary Russian life, by Martha Morton, adapted from the German of Leopold Kampe. Franklin Reicher is the daughter of Emanuel Reicher, the foremost actor on the German stage, who is the Kaiser's theatrical adviser. She made her debut at the tender age of fifteen as Nora in Ibsen's "Dolls House," the great Norwegian dramatist being present. She is a woman of great personal charm and is known as the Mary Anderson of the German stage.

At the offertory "Pie Jesu" was sung by Mrs. Terrence Cox and as the body was being borne from the church "De Profundis" was rendered by the choir. Miss Lulu Ginty presided at the organ.

COUNTRY HOME OF E. H. HARRIMAN, WHICH HE IS TO OCCUPY NEXT MONTH

EDWARD H. HARRIMAN

HARRIMAN'S HOUSE AT ARDEN

MAIN INTERIOR COURT AND FOUNTAIN

ARDEN, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(G. Sept. 1) Edward H. Harriman, returned from his search for a fountain of health at European resorts, will occupy Tower Hill, his estate at Arden, N. Y. For a long time 500 men have been at work on Tower Hill, preparing it for its owner's occupancy. Now 100 more have been added to rush the work to completion. No other country estate in America can rival Tower Hill save only Baltimore, George W. Vanderbilt's domain in North Carolina, and it is a question whether the Harriman estate does not surpass Baltimore in most respects. Standing on the terrace of Tower Hill, Mr. Harriman sees in all directions only land owned by himself, as the house, set on a mountain, overlooks 15,000 acres belonging to the railroad man. Although the house will cost when completed more than $2,000,000, Mr. Harriman's purpose in building it is the erection not of a palace, but a home to which he can repair when wearied of the financial stress of which he is the center. He will spend at least three days of each week at Arden.

BIDS FOR BATTLESHIPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Naval officials say that the figures submitted by the big shipbuilding concerns for the construction of the battleships Wyoming and Arkansas are very reasonable and the time in which they propose to deliver these vessels also is very satisfactory.

The proposition of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. to install machinery of the turbine type coupled with electric motors is something new in naval construction and is considered by the officials to be worthy of serious consideration, although they do not believe the time has come for application about a man of war. About ten days will be required for a thorough study of the various bids submitted before the announcement of the award of the contract is made.

WINDOWS SMASHED

By a Frightened Horse in Central Street Today

A horse driven by Joseph Bourdellias of Andover, Mass., and owned by Joseph's father, made small work of two plate glass windows in Central street shortly before the noon hour today. The horse, attached to a farm wagon loaded with grain, was standing in front of the stores of Hugh C. McKosker, dealer in pictures, frames and wall paper, and Henry W. Barnes, tailor. The animal, a large and spirited bay, showed some signs of nervousness and made the demonstration clear when the motorman of a car loaded with the wagon was too close to the track to be passed in safety by the car.

MAIDENS FAIR

Just Fifty Seven, I Do Declare

ARE STARING WITH A VACANT STARE

For Man, Poor Man—Long Pond, the Home of Beauty But Men Are at a Premium

Out at Schofield's Long Pond farm on the road to Lakeview there are 50 young ladies and one lone man enjoying a two weeks' vacation. The poor fellow is in a bad way, for in a field of 50 good-looking he doesn't dare play a favorite. During the past few rainy evenings when all had to sit around a table for a mixed gathering. While he was in the garden yesterday he heard a youth whistling "Gee, I Wish I Had a Girl," and he chased him clear to Willow Dale. When he goes back to Boston he is going to get a job in Jordan's or Fien's or some of the big department stores for all he's heard for a week is about "rats" and "puffs" and "Princesses, Directories, One-Piece gowns, Pantaloons gowns, and a host of other things not found around the prize ring or in a smoking room.

There are plump girls and lean girls, short girls and tall girls, young girls and old girls, girls of every style of beauty, blondes and brunettes with angelic faces and the most ravishing tresses, some of which cost as high as $1.05. It is indeed a marvelous sight to see these fifty-seven damsels sitting around the festive board munching, noon and night, so inadequately supplied with soul mates and wasting sunny smiles, gay laughter and a generally lovable demeanor on the almost man-depleted dining hall. It is remarkable how with but one quick sharp glance their fellow boarders' wearing apparel is instantly upraised and weeks afterward will be described to the minutest particular.

And after luncheon? Gee, what a rush for bathing suits and what an array of dazzling beauty slowly wends its way to the shores of Long Pond ready to embark for the swimming hole. Atlantic City girls! (Gasp, they don't hold a candle to the beauties residing near the shore.) As they row up the pond in their numberless boats, a little armada in fact, the fishermen on that delightful body of water on seeing the fair Nymphs, immediately lower their colors and surrender unconditionally to the smile of beauty. The mere men are then shipped aboard the captors' vessels and allowed to man the oars back to port.

The past few days, however, saw little doing in the aquatic line. Monday and Tuesday fifty-seven little maidens could be seen in the farmhouse seated in a circle twiddling their thumbs back and twiddling their thumbs forth. There was a tremendous demand for the latest from the pen of Shakespeare. The Ibsen and Laura Jean Libby. The card table displayed the title for the next two games, and card-playing became unbearable. The girls talked a little, just a very little, as the buzz of voices could not be heard any farther than Kenny's Corner.

Many of the girls solemnly assert that heart failure will be their portion if by any chance a preponderance of the green men should appear in the vicinity of Long Pond. Plan after plan is being evolved to entice some of Lowell's nicest to visit the farm even but for a few minutes, in the hope that their radiant beauty will act as a magnet with which to hold the much wanted men, but all such plans have been given up as impracticable and Long pond road is far as the male portion of mankind is concerned still remains solitary and deserted.

WON THE TITLE

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—F. R. Alexander and H. H. Hackett, who have held the national lawn tennis championship in doubles for the past two years easily won the title for the third time today by defeating Maurice McLoughlin and G. O. Jones, the Pacific coast champions in straight sets. The scores were 6-4, 6-4, 6-0. In the first two sets the challengers put up a strong fight. They succeeded in forcing the games to three in the first set and after the champions had almost clinched the set by taking the next two games, the westerners pulled up gamely and took the ninth game. They were unable, however, to bring the set to a close. After Hackett and Alexander had taken the second set by the same score their opponents appeared to have exhausted their strength. Playing a brilliant net game, the champions easily took the final set without allowing the younger men a single game. The weather today was excellent.

CLASSY BACKSTOPS ARE NOT NUMEROUS THIS SEASON

By TOMMY CLARK.
The classy catcher is a rare bird. It seems at times that the magnates spend too much time and money in building up great pitching staffs without reckoning on good receivers. The catcher rather than the pitcher is the real mainspring of the baseball machine. Stationed behind the batsman, he has greater opportunities than the pitcher for observing what a certain batter can and cannot hit. Knowing the man with whom he works, he can tell if his curves are breaking right, can make him work slowly when he is inclined to hurry and can make him hurry when he inclines to the contrary.

Watcher of Bases.
The catcher is the chief watcher of the bases when occupied, passes signals for the pitcher throwing to catch runners too far from the bags and signals the proper time for delivering the ball to the bat.

Aside from all this mental effort, he must snatch off any kind of curve the pitcher lets loose, must dig up wild pitches that go into the ground and must chase the elusive foul fly. He must block runners who slide into the plate and must take his turn at the bat. All this work keeps a man of average intellect or physical ability quite busy.

Yet the catcher, so the majority of the fans think, is a mere machine that stops the curves thrown by the pitcher that the batter misses. Catching is a difficult job in more ways than one, and good catchers are scarce.

Must Use Judgment in Throwing.
There are many catchers in the business with wonderful throwing arms, and still they are not regarded as particularly dangerous; certainly not as great backstops. The chief reason is that they do not use proper judgment in the use of this ability. Base runners soon come to know how well any catcher throws and what liberties can be taken with him, how big a lead can be taken off any base and whether the catcher is likely to take a chance on nipping him off second at critical moments. Great catchers seldom throw to bases promiscuously. They go after a base runner only when he becomes too bold and gets too far off the bag, making the play practically sure of success. Base runners soon come to fear such a man more than the one who is continually heaving to the infielders. The catcher who is constantly throwing to get base runners stands more chance of making bad and costly throws than the one who is conservative.

Kling's Great Throwing.
The greatest illustration of the value of the conservative throwing catcher was in the fourth game of the world's series played in Detroit last fall between the Chicago Nationals and the Detroit Americans. The fourth inning of that game was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, ever played on a ball field. The Chicago lead of two runs, the Detroit not having scored. That inning O'Leary of the Detroit led off with a base hit, and Crawford reaped out another. Cobb was up next, and the situation was dangerous. Every one who witnessed the game will remember how Brown forced Cobb to bunt, thus forcing O'Leary out at third. Then came Kling's great throw to Tinker at second, catching Crawford off that bag and removing the possibility of a run for the American leaguers should Claude Rossman hit safely. Those two plays—Cobb's bunt to Brown and Kling's throw catching Crawford—insured the second world's championship for the Chicago team.

Importance of Position.
Outguessing a batter and knowing in which direction a foul ball is going are two things no catcher can ever be taught. There are certain general rules about how to mix up curves, speed and slow balls to a batter, but they are not absolute, and it is up to the catcher to figure out what the man with the stick is looking for and then cross him. There is where head-work counts if it doesn't anywhere else. A catcher can be taught the weakness of the batsmen, but he must possess this quality as well or he is merely a mechanical player. The ability to know which way to turn to go after a foul ball is intuitive; it cannot be taught to any man.

Who Is the Greatest?
With Johnny Kling of the Chicago Nationals out, it is a hard task to pick the best catchers in the game today.

Excellent man to have on the receiving end of the battery, and before the season closes he may do real first class work. Myers, the Indian, in another year will make the stars look to their laurels. Brooklyn fans swear by Bill Bergen. They regard him as the backstop.

It for about twelve years, however, and is not the catcher physically that he once was. "Nig" Clarke is one of the classiest backstops in either league. No receiver can peg any stronger or get the ball away quicker than "Nig" or Jus. persists in playing like an amateur. tin, as he wishes to be called. Clarke however, and slow on the bases. Owens is a clean catcher and a clever thrower. Charley Schmidt has looked good ever since he joined the Detroit except in the world's series, where he

three Cleveland players were the victims. Bradley was on second and Jack McCarthy on first, when Dutch Gochnauer sent a short single to left. Collins got the ball and shot it to Catcher Farrell a yard ahead of Bradley. McCarthy was scooting toward third at this juncture, and Farrell giving a handicap on the pitcher by moving his slab farther from the plate or by abolishing the spitball, compelling the outfielders to stand inside a marked square until a ball is hit, so as to prevent "laying for" the batsmen and increasing the resilience of the ball.

So far as noticed, however, no one has suggested increasing the size of the ball itself. It is odd, too, because at any time one hears frequent advice from the spectators to "try a bigger ball" or "try a harder ball." There seems to be a unanimity of opinion that if the ball were given a bigger stock he would do better execution, despite the fact that the legal limit will permit. Most of the balls will be found, however, to measure close to two and three-quarters inches in diameter at the thickest part, where the batter places to hit the ball. The differences in balls are chiefly in weight and shape to meet the individual idiosyncrasies of the stars and rear stars. If the legal limit were raised to a diameter of three inches, making an increase of a quarter of an inch only, no radical change in the game would be produced, and there would be opportunity for work batsmen to experiment to their possible advantage. And if that did not produce the desired change there remains the suggestion to increase slightly the size of the ball itself. This would not be made much larger with-

Some of the Leading Catchers of the American and National Leagues.

There are at least five catchers in the National league who seem to run a close race for first honors. If a vote were taken as to who was the greatest backstop in the older organization the men named would undoubtedly be chosen. Archer, who succeeded Moran as the Cubs' regular backstop, is doing the lion's share of the catching for Chicago. Schiel is doing the bulk of the work for the New York Giants. Bergen is considered the best catcher that Brooklyn has had in years. Gibson is the hero of the Pittsburgh Pirates, while St. Louis fans will swear by Roger Bresnahan. Philadelphia fans and critics alike say that Charley Doolin is Kling's successor.

Chicago fans think that Archer is one of the greatest men that ever appeared behind the bat. Even the Cubs' manager says he doesn't miss Kling a little bit and that Archer fills the shoes of the absent one perfectly. True, he has been a big factor in their winning many games this season, and he is a terror to any players that attempt to steal bases on him, for he can throw with the accuracy of a crow's flying. He also is not the worst batter in the game, but has the happy faculty of being able to hit when his mean runs. But don't let the idea run away with you that he is as good as Kling. The latter was one of the greatest catchers that ever donned a mask.

It has been due to Gibson's superb catching that the Pittsburgh pitchers have been twirling in such smooth fashion this season. His work behind the bat probably has been the best of any backstop up to date, while he hits like a demon.

Schiel, New York's catcher, has not yet got into the stride that he pursued when he was with the Cincinnati Reds, but he has shown that he is an marvel of the league. He pulls off hair raising catches of fouls day after day, and he mows down opponents who try to steal bases on him. His work with the stick is not very good, but with a little practice he would develop into a great swatter and surely become a strong contestant for premier backstop honors.

Roger Bresnahan used to be regarded the foremost catcher in the country; but, having the managerial responsibilities of the St. Louis Cardinals upon his shoulders, he has practically relinquished the duties of backstop. Also has more passed balls than some of the other stars. As for Ted Easterly, he is above the average as a catcher, a thrower and a stickler. Both the Cleveland catchers are strong in blocking a runner at the plate and in getting the ball on him, Clarke being the superior of the two. Outside of the first mentioned, the best catchers in the American league are Kleinow of New York, Stephens of St. Louis, Corrigan of Boston, Stange and Schmidt of out Schmidt would rank among the foremost catchers of the two leagues. At that he cannot be so bad or Detroit would not have won two pennants with Schmidt doing most of the catching. This season Schmidt has done little work behind the bat, giving the way to the youngster Stange. The latter has given an excellent account of himself this season.

Boston has two good catchers in Corrigan and Donohue, the latter be-threw back to Collins to get Jack. The toss was poor, and McCarthy tried to score. Jimmy proved a good retriever. He chased the ball to left, recovered it and spun it home in time to get McCarthy. Gochnauer, who had been having a nap on second all this time, now started for third, and again Farrell's throw was poor. The catcher at third took the long chance and waved the "go home" signal to Gochnauer. Kept on, if going at the top speed he used to travel can be called "keeping on." "Make it three, Jimmy," yelled the crowd, and Collins did. He found the ball somewhere out in left field, and by a long and accurate throw to Farrell retired the third and last Cleveland runner. The scores' books after it was all over looked a good deal like a page of copy that a reporter for a Chinese newspaper might have prepared.

SCHEMES TO INCREASE HITS.

Latest Expedient Is the Use of Bigger Bats and Balls.

Those wisacres of the baseball world who have been burning up gray matter for several seasons trying to devise a way to help the batsman in his losing struggle against the steadily increasing perfection in the defensive end of the game have overlooked a more simple expedient than has been suggested in the presentation of "The Blue and one which is worthy of a trial if more batting is desired. Among the schemes devised and discarded have not been widening the angle of the foul field, so as to produce more fair play, under contract to deliver to an eastern ritory for the fielders to protect; put-

ROBERT EDESON IN FARCE.

One of the interesting events of the coming dramatic season will be the appearance of Robert Edeson, well known as a clever romantic actor, in a Victorian farce entitled "The Noble Spaniard." The author of the farce is W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Lady Frederick" and "Jack Straw," two of last season's big successes. The role requires much skill in its interpretation, and Mr. Edeson and his admirers are hoping great things from it.

out a loud protest from the fielders and the possible ruination of the defense, but a slight addition to the size of both bat and ball surely would saw results in hitting without any other perceptible effect on the game.

ZELDA SEARS, AUTHOR.

Miss Zelda Sears, one of the conspicuous members of the cast engaged in the presentation of "The Blue and one which is worthy of a trial if more batting is desired. Among the schemes devised and discarded have not been widening the angle of the foul field, so as to produce more fair play, under contract to deliver to an eastern ritory for the fielders to protect; put-

THREE LEADING HORSE PILOTS OF THE ENGLISH TURF.

Johnny Bull has an abundance of good jockeys this season. Among the best the splendid riding of Madden, Higgs and Wooton stands out as best. The work of the latter in the saddle has been the sensation of the English turf this season. He is now leading the winning horse pilots with a big majority. Wooton is the youngest jockey on the turf abroad. He has just passed his fifteenth birthday. Wooton piloted his first winner in a race when he was ten years old.

stop. He very seldom plays now, and when he does don the "cage" he doesn't display his old time form. Phelps, who is doing the main part of the backstopping for the Cardinals, is a splendid catcher, a good thrower and a first class field general.

Larry McLean is doing some excellent work behind the bat for Cincinnati. McLean is a heady catcher, a good batter and has an arm of steel, but is not very accurate in his throwing.

Brown of Philadelphia is a grand backstop. He is an excellent thrower and a great field general. Much of the Philadelphia pitcher's good work is due to his knowledge of the weakness of many star hitters.

The way the writer sizes up the catchers is as follows: Gibson, Doolin, Bresnahan, Donohue, Schiel, McLean, Archer, Myers and Graham.

Hard to Pick Best in American.

In the American league you can easily name the four classy catchers. Sullivan of Chicago, Criger of St. Louis, Street of Washington and Clarke of Cleveland. Lou Criger for years was rated as the best catcher in the American league, and he is still one of the greatest. He has been at Washington Has Prize In Street. In Street Washington has one who ranks with the best. He caught 124 games last year and seldom had a bad day and has done the bulk of the backstopping this year. He gets the ball away like a shot, is a very sure thrower and has fairly well. He adds he is the best catcher that he has ever seen of the big leaguers within the last two years. Jack Kleinow of New York has come back a little. At that he is doing better work than he did in 1908, when he was not in the best condition. When Kleinow is in best there are few better behind the bat than he. One of the New York jocks like a homer for he is a good stickler and excellent thrower. Swann, the big boy from Atlanta, is a good youngster, but lacks experience, and may be heard from in the future.

Outside of Billy Sullivan, Chicago has Payne and Owens. Payne can catch any pitcher living and do it well. He is cradle in fielding and throwing. This happened in Boston in 1902, and ing a brother to "Jiggs" Donohue of the Chicago White Sox. Pat has many diamonds and is really a fast man. He puts the ball on the runner well at the plate and looks as if he were due to remain in the league. Corrigan is a hardworking backstopper and can be depended upon for good work. He is one of the best batting catchers in the league.

Condie Mack has worked wonders with Ira Thomas. The latter was a failure as a backstop when a member of the New York and Detroit clubs. Thomas is now one of the best batting catchers in the league, a heady backstopper and a good thrower. The manager, his partner in the game, is looking for an American catcher who would place them in the following order: Sullivan, Clarke, Street, Criger, Stephens, Thomas, Kleinow and Corrigan.

THREE REMARKABLE PLAYS.

Captain Harry Lord of the Boston Americans is a batting great third baseman, but it is doubtful if he ever threw out three men at the plate on one batted ball, as Jimmy Collins, one of his great predecessors, once did. This happened in Boston in 1902, and

HENRY B. HARRIS, PROMINENT THEATRICAL MANAGER.

Henry B. Harris is one of the prominent theatrical managers who have made their fortune and reputation in the drama. At the present time he controls the large New York theatre, the Broadway theatre, and is less than twenty-two years of age. Mr. Harris has a theatrical career as a prominent actor. Recently he has been president of the National Association of Theatrical Managers of America.

BEAUTIFUL HEDWIG REICHER, WHO IS TO STAR IN AMERICA.

Fraulein Hedwig Reicher, who has been a reigning empress in leading German theaters for several years, is to make her debut as an English speaking actress in the coming season in America. The play set for her initial appearance in this country is entitled "On the River," a drama of contemporary Russian life, by Marthe Morton, adapted from the German of Leopold Kempt. Fraulein Reicher is the daughter of Emanuel Reicher, the foremost actor on the German stage, who is the Kaiser's theatrical adviser. She made her debut at the tender age of fifteen as Nora in Ibsen's "Doll's House," the great Norwegian dramatist being present. She is a woman of great personal charm and is known as the Mary Anderson of the German stage.
